

From a relatively short approach shot the golfer is faced with a green with distinct levels requiring exact placement. The narrow green entrance has a false front that kicks hard towards the double tier bunkering on the right. The narrowness is emphasised by a bunker tight left, which must be carried to reach the back left pin position. Back right is another difficult position but contours help the ball towards this spot.

HOLE
#9

